

Jordan Expects Retaliation

TEL AVIV (AP) — Another Israeli attack on Jordan is expected in retaliation for the ambush killing of six Israelis on patrol, including a lieutenant colonel and a major.

In Israel's costliest encounter with Arab guerrillas since the Middle East war in June 1967, four other Israelis were wounded when five Arabs hiding in hills near Nablus cut loose with hand grenades and automatic weapons Tuesday, Israeli military sources reported Thursday.

The attackers were reported wiped out, but it was considered probable that the Israelis would take further strong action against the Jordanians, whom they contend provide bases and arms for the Arab commando raiders.

Israel's worst previous toll in a clash with guerrillas was the death of a colonel and a captain July 26 in a running battle with eight Arabs near the Damiya Bridge across the Jordan River.

Red Forces Maul Allies

SAIGON (AP) — Allied forces drove back two strong attacks early today by some 600 North Vietnamese northwest of Saigon, killing 67 enemy soldiers at a cost of nine South Vietnamese militiamen killed and 31 of the defenders wounded.

But in three other battles south of Da Nang and in the Mekong Delta, Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces dealt serious losses to U.S. and South Vietnamese units. The casualty count in those engagements was 24 Americans, 16 South Vietnamese and 91 of the enemy killed, 81 Americans and 81 South Vietnamese wounded.

MIG Shot Down

Over North Vietnam, U.S. pilots shot down their first MIG jet in seven weeks Thursday, the U.S. Command announced. The command also reported that a U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchief was shot down by North Vietnamese groundfire and the pilot is missing.

The ground war continued hottest northwest of Saigon, along the jungled invasion routes from Cambodia to the capital, and in the northern provinces. U.S. intelligence officers said they had one "pretty good" report that an attack on Saigon was planned for Monday to mark one of the Viet Cong's numerous special days. But one officer said "we have nothing to back it up and there is no indication of movement."

Attack Camp

Northwest of Saigon, a battalion of perhaps 300 North Vietnamese came out of hideouts in rubber plantation country and attacked a U.S. 25th Infantry Division camp 10 miles east of Tay Ninh City.

The attackers hit the 200 American defenders with mortars, rocket-propelled grenades, machine-gun fire and small arms, but the U.S. troops—well entrenched for the night—reported only three men wounded.

American fire from helicopter gunships, artillery and 50-caliber machine guns sent the enemy force reeling back after about three hours of fighting. Military spokesmen said 32 enemy bodies were found on the battlefield, along with three bazooka-type rocket launchers.

Outnumbered, 2 To 1

About 10 miles west of Tay Ninh and barely a mile from the Cambodian border, about 300 North Vietnamese attacked a government outpost defended by militiamen.

Although outnumbered 2 to 1, the militiamen held out through the night with the help of helicopter gunships and dive bombers. Then 150 reinforcing troops were rushed in by helicopter. After the fighting subsided, 35 enemy bodies were found; the toll among the defenders was nine militiamen killed and 28 wounded.

In the northern provinces about 15 miles south of Da Nang, two companies of U.S. Marines from the 7th Regiment were sweeping Thursday through rice fields and scrub hill country when they ran into a strong force believed to be from the 36th and 38th North Vietnamese Regiments.

The battle lasted 12 hours, until 8 p.m., with the Leathernecks calling in air strikes and artillery. But when it was over they could report only four of the enemy dead, while Marine casualties were 11 killed and 54 wounded.

Condition Of Kazoo Man At Ann Arbor Good

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A 22-member surgical team completed the first heart transplant in Michigan history today at the University of Michigan Hospital, and the patient left the operating room in what was described as "excellent" condition.

"The way things went it would have appeared that we had done many of them — it went so smoothly," said Dr. Roger Nelson, senior associate director at the hospital.

It was the world's 51st human heart transplant.

The operation, which took five hours and 28 minutes, was transplanted the heart of an unidentified 37-year-old man to Philip T. Barnum, 49, of Kalamazoo.

Nelson told newsmen Barnum was awake and smiling when he was wheeled out of the operating room, and no complications were encountered during the surgery.

Waited For Donor

Barnum, who had been in the hospital since Aug. 8 awaiting a donor, said early Thursday that "this is one of my better days—this should be the day."

Nelson said surgery began on Barnum at 11:48 p.m., the donor died at 12:45 a.m., at 3:02 a.m. the heart had been transplanted and began to beat spontaneously, and at 5:15 a.m. the operation was completed.

The go-ahead for the surgery was given when the donor suffered a massive brain hemorrhage and hope for his survival was abandoned. He had entered the hospital after suffering a stroke about a month ago.

Flutter Subside

Nelson said there was a brief flutter in the heartbeats after the transplant but it subsided spontaneously. He said the donor's heart was approximately the same size as Barnum's would have been if it had been normal. Barnum's heart had become enlarged from his illness, a degenerative disease.

A hospital spokesman said there was no major tissue incompatibility between Barnum and the donor, and the match was described as being as good as or better than the average in kidney transplants between unrelated patients.

One of the major obstacles to successful transplants is the tendency of the patient to reject any foreign tissue introduced into the body. Both donor and recipient must be of the same blood type and have a close genetic match.

Father Of Four

With Barnum, a father of four, at the hospital was his wife, Aileen. The Barnums' children are Mrs. Ronald (Patricia) Sheldon of Adrian; Thomas, 21, who is home on leave from the Army; Sheryl, 19, and Nancy, 17.

Sheryl told a newsmen the hospital called the Barnums' Kalamazoo home early Thursday evening, notifying the family the transplant operation was ordered with emergency haste after the donor was found. She said her mother left immediately on the 100-mile trip to Ann Arbor. The children stayed in Kalamazoo.

Names of the doctors on the surgical team also were withheld, under a policy arranged some months ago as the U-M Medical Center prepared for its first transplant.

50th Transplant

Twenty-five of the other 49 transplant recipients in the world are living.

The 50th transplant was reported completed near midnight Thursday by surgeons at Houston's Methodist Hospital. The reported donor, Robert Gordon Yur, 46, Baytown, Tex., was said to have died of irreparable brain damage from a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Bartum, manager of a branch office at Kalamazoo for the Michigan secretary of state, entered the medical center last Aug. 8.

Doctors said he was suffering cardio-myopathy, a degenerative disease of the heart.

Since he entered the hospital, doctors have said they were hunting for a donor whose blood and tissue types closely matched Barnum's.

Ike's Recovery Called Miracle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army's surgeon general describes former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's recuperation from repeated heart attacks as "miraculous" and says the former president now gets out of bed several times a day.

"We are very pleased with the progress that Gen. Eisenhower is making at the moment," Lt. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton said Thursday.

Heaton said Eisenhower now gets out of bed several times daily to sit in a chair, eats well, no longer uses oxygen and looks "very good."

He added, however, that the 77-year-old Eisenhower is not out of danger. He declined to speculate on when or whether he could go home to his Gettysburg, Pa. farm.

Heaton's comments were made at a White House ceremony during which President Johnson declared the week of Oct. 13 as "America" Salute to Eisenhower Week.

Hecklers Called, 'People Of Hate'

By The Associated Press

Presidential candidates Richard M. Nixon and George Wallace raised funds Thursday while Hubert H. Humphrey met the raised voices of antiwar hecklers whom he called people of hate, not peace.

Humphrey, besieged by hundreds of shouting protesters, at a Boston street corner rally, said afterwards, "It is time to blow the whistle on those who would deny the American people the right to reason together."

The vice president said the hard core hecklers believed in nothing and added, "Take a look at them, filled with hate and bitterness. Look at their faces filled with violence."

Nixon faced a friendly audience of fellow Republicans over a closed-circuit television network linking 20 fund-raising dinners that brought in $5 million and told his backers, "You've made a good bet."

Predicts Victory

He predicted victory in November and said, "You're going to win this bet, and you're going to win it big."

Wallace raised more than $250,000 for his third-party effort with a luncheon, dinner and rally at Montgomery, Ala., where he told a crowd of 15,000, "We're going to show them that we represent the mainstream of thought in America."

The antiwar demonstrators chanted criticism at both Humphrey and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who endorsed the Democratic candidate.

Kennedy, whose brother, Robert, was assassinated as he sought the nomination, said, "I think if there is one lesson of 1968, it is that there is no room for anarchy, that there is no room for violence, and there is no solution to difficult and compelling problems by shouting and screaming."

Lectures Hecklers

Humphrey told the hecklers, "Your actions are going to disgust the American people and harm the cause of peace."

Nixon, in a speech at Springfield, Mo., promised to include dissenting opinions in a Cabinet that would have Democratic and independent members as well as Republicans if he is elected president.

"I don't want a government of yesmen," he said. "I don't believe in government by the Gallup poll."

Humphrey went from Boston to Sioux Falls, S. D., to receive the endorsement of Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., a rival for the nomination and critic of the Vietnam war. The vice president moved on to Springfield, Ill., today where he renewed a challenge to Nixon for a debate, either face to face or on television.

Still Unknown

In other political developments:

—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, the Democratic nominee for vice president, said one reason for his failure to draw big crowds is a lack of organization.

"The other answer," he said, "is that not enough people know me yet. But they're going to."

—Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, the GOP choice for No. 2, said AFL-CIO President George Meany might be violating federal restrictions if personnel paid with union dues are used for political purposes in a voter education and registration drive.

Romney Denies GOP Appealing To Prejudices

BOSTON (AP) — Allegations that Republicans Richard Nixon and Spiro Agnew are appealing to racial prejudice are "distortions, innuendos and false charges," Michigan Gov. George Romney said Thursday.

Nixon and Agnew "have fought for civil rights and civil responsibilities," Romney said at a campaign dinner. "They have denounced racism, whether black or white. They have spoken out and acted for law and justice — for progress and order for all Americans."

Romney, who briefly challenged Nixon for the Republican presidential nomination early this year, referred to himself jokingly as "his TKO victim" in the New Hampshire primary.

"I can tell you from personal experience that Dick Nixon packs a real political wallop," Romney said.

The Michigan governor said he is convinced that Nixon and Agnew stand for racial justice as well as order.

"And neither you nor I nor the American people will be fooled by the distortions, innuendos and false charges of men hungry to hang onto power or desperate to seize it," Romney said.

Hope For More Foreign Aid Is Up To Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — An emancipated $1.619-billion foreign-aid appropriation bill has been tossed by the House to the Senate, which may fatten it up some.

It passed the House Thursday in record time and with a record 45 per cent cut from funds requested by President Johnson to finance the program for the current fiscal year.

Opponents of the $1.3-billion House-approved cut made only a token fight to increase the funds. They gave up after losing their initial effort by overwhelming voice vote.

Privately they predicted that the Senate would beef up the measure, particularly the allotments for development loans.

Approved only Thursday morning by the Appropriations Committee, the bill's total was the smallest since the aid program was launched in 1948 as the Marshall Plan.

Normally the House could not have considered the bill so swiftly since it has a rule requiring money bills to lie over for three days before being voted on.

It waived that rule before passing the bill by a roll-call vote of 173 to 139. Voting for it were 120 Democrats and 53 Republicans. Against it were 55 Democrats and 84 Republicans.

Deep cuts in funds requested by the President were in supporting assistance allotments, reduced from $595 million to $365 million; in development loans for nations outside South America, from $765 million to $265 million, and in loans and grants for South American nations, from $623 million to $270 million.

Direct military assistance allotments were trimmed from $420 million to $375 million.

The bill was the last of the annual money measures Congress must consider before adjourning.

TV Debate Bill Makes Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The bill to make televised debates possible between presidential candidates has inched forward in a House committee amid charges that the issue is becoming a political football.

There also was speculation Thursday that even if the Senate-passed measure finally wins approval in the House the debates may never take place.

The House Commerce Committee tacked onto the bill a provision to insure inclusion of third-party candidate George Wallace in any debate between Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey and Republican Richard M. Nixon.

Called Delay Tactic

Then it approved the over-all measure 21-10, but scheduled further consideration next week after the ranking Republican protested the precise wording.

The move by Rep. William L. Springer of Illinois prompted the comment from Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va., that the issue has "turned into a political situation completely."

He and Rep. Brock Adams, D-Wash., suggested Springer's move amounted to a delaying tactic and that Nixon does not want to debate.

The bill would suspend requirements that radio and television stations or networks who provide time to one candidate also provide it to all others competing for the same office.

Suspension of the law in 1960, led to the historic debates between Nixon and John F. Kennedy.

Inclusion of Wallace drew praise from Frank Stanton, president of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Stanton said Wallace had emerged, according to polls, "as an important force in this fall's campaign."

Who Will Debate?

"We believe the electorate should be given the opportunity to compare first hand his views on the critical issues of this campaign with those of the candidates of the Democratic and Republican parties," Stanton said in a statement.

Should the modified bill clear committee it then faces House debate and later conference with the Senate.

Nixon has said he would be willing to debate Humphrey, but not in a three-way meeting with Wallace. Humphrey has indicated he would go along with a three-way debate.

If the bill passes, however, and Nixon sticks with his position some sources suggest Humphrey might refuse to debate Wallace alone.

Arrest Three In Kidnaping

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI said it recovered early today a 7-year-old boy from his kidnapers who had demanded $125,000 in ransom after abducting the child Wednesday in a Chicago suburb.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said the boy, Hillard Willis Marks of Oak Brook, Ill., was found in a home on Chicago's West Side.

Hoover said three persons were arrested in connection with kidnaping the youth who was returning home from Monroe Elementary School in nearby Hinsdale.

An FBI spokesman said the boy was abducted by two persons in a late model car.

Shortly after the kidnaping, a $125,000 ransom was demanded of the boy's father, William E. Marks, operator of a Chicago manufacturing firm, through a series of telephone calls, the spokesman said.

The ransom was not paid, he added.

The spokesman said the three suspects probably will be turned over to local authorities for prosecution. He said federal intervention is not required because the boy was not taken across state lines.

Charge Five Plotted To Kill Genesee Prosecutor

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley today announced the arrest of five men in Flint in what he described as an organized crime ring which plotted to kill Genesee County Prosecutor Robert F. Leonard.

The arrests grew out of a November 1967, case in which 31 persons—including three of the five arrested in Flint today—were arrested on charges ranging from gambling law violations to conspiracy to murder a police informant.

Kelley said the Flint-based crime ring, which he added also operates in Wayne and Oakland counties, Ohio and Pennsylvania, threatened prospective witnesses in the original cases and Flint imported hired killers to Flint.

Leonard, who appeared with Kelley in a joint news conference, said he did not know whether the killers had come after him or after witnesses.

But Leonard added informants had confirmed that "arrangements had been made" to kill him.

Kelley said those arrested early today and the charges were:

—Caesar Motevecchio, 25, of Erie, Pa., conspiracy to commit armed robbery.

—Joseph Giacalone, 29, of Flint, conspiracy to commit armed robbery; obstructing justice; and inciting perjury.

—Thomas J. Parry, 30, of Erie, conspiracy to commit armed robbery.

—Ameal E. Bachmann, 43, of Flint, obstructing justice and inciting perjury.

—John Juarez, 25, of Flint, charged by Pennsylvania authorities with obtaining money under false pretenses.

Montevecchio, Giacalone and Juarez were among the 31 arrested last November and charged with conspiracy in the attempted murder of police informant Charles Thomas. The three also were arrested by federal authorities on gambling charges.

Thomas was shot twice in the head in a Pittsburgh, Pa., motel.

Others arrested last year were variously charged with armed robbery, soliciting prostitution, pandering, passing stolen checks, gambling and conspiracy to murder.

Kelley said today's arrests resulted from an investigation which followed "direct threats of death to many of the witnesses, and a gangland-style attack on two of the witnesses who were fired upon in December."

Public Sympathy Shifts To Police; Says Law Chief

LANSING (AP)—Public sentiment is swinging away from sympathy for demonstrators to support for police, several law enforcement officials told the Michigan Municipal League Thursday.

"The American people are getting fed up with crime and violence. They are getting fed up with the ultra-liberal decisions by the U.S. Supreme Court making it easier for the criminals," Pontiac Police Chief William K. Hanger told a panel on community-police relations.

Previously, Hanger said, police were cast in the role of bullies and villains and the demonstrators were considered the underdogs.

Now Underdogs
"There were cries of 'police brutality' throughout the nation," he said. "The liberal element of the news media put out a lot of publicity unfavorable to the police."

Charges of brutality and discrimination now are losing their impact and audience, Hanger told the municipal leaders. Sniping at police, assaults on police and the bombing of police cars have gained them sympathy, he said.

"Police are transposing from the villains to the good guys," he declared. "They now are cast in the role of the underdogs."

Hanger said he favored the organization of citizens' advisory committees and similar groups but declared: "They should have responsible rather than radical leadership."

No. 1 Issue
Hanger said he thought there should be no discrimination in the hiring of police. "But there should be no lowering of standards or double standards," he added.

James H. Brickley, chief assistant Wayne County prosecutor, agreed in part and dissented in part with Hanger.

"The crime situation now is the No. 1 domestic issue," he said. "It may be the issue on which the presidential choice is decided. The American people want crime under control and want to feel safe."

Brickley said he thought, however, that police departments had over-reacted to changes in the criminal laws made by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Police have too long been neglected, Brickley said. They have not been given enough pay or enough training.

Urges Aid Pact

"What we need is professionalism among the police," he asserted, "so that in a riot situation they don't lose their cool." Mount Pleasant Police Chief Charles E. Haun, president of the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police, said law enforcement officials now are faced with entirely different kinds of crowd and riot control situations than in the past.

Previously, he said, police had to contend only with such groups as union pickets and boisterous college students.

"Now you never know when a crowd gathers just what the results might be," he said. "You have to plan in advance. We train with helmets, nightsticks and shotguns in various formations. Then we just hope we never have to use this."

Meanwhile, Haun said, his police department has a mutual aid pact with State Police and local sheriffs. He suggested that other communities develop similar programs.

Riots Not New

"We are in a period of disorders," Dr. Albert J. Reiss Jr., chairman of the department of sociology at the University of Michigan, told the municipal officials.

Reiss said riots are nothing new in American history.

There were bloody anti-draft riots during the Civil War, he said, riots by anarchists at the start of this century, riots over voting rights for women and major disorders when unions first started organizing.

"The only way you can settle the disorders is to resolve the issues," Reiss said.

Players Announce First Production

Tickets for "Never Too Late,"—Sumner A. Long's domestic farce about a married man in his 50's who discovers, after a hiatus of 24 years, that he is to become a father again—are now available from all season-ticket distributors in Escanaba and Gladstone.

"Never Too Late," acclaimed by the New York Daily News as "something we have not had in the theater in a long, long time . . . plain and simple laughter," will inaugurate the 1968-69 season of Players de Noc on Oct. 3, 4 and 5 in the auditorium of Escanaba Area High School.

Tickets for this play and season tickets are now available from Gust Asp, Gladstone High School in care of Mrs. Carol Wood, Dehlin Drug Store in Gladstone, the main branch of the First National Bank of Escanaba, Beck's Western Auto Store, Anderson and Bloom clothing store, the administrative office of Bay de Noc Community College, Escanaba Area High School and Holy Name High School.

Persons purchasing season tickets, which cost $6 for adults and $4 for students, will be entitled to attend the production of this season's musical, "Little Mary Sunshine," without charge.

Free season tickets were awarded to Fran Foster, 1608 Lake Shore Dr., Gladstone; and Mrs. James Dann, 408 S. 4th St., winners of a recent drawing.

The cast of "Never Too Late," in order of appearance, will include Arlene Hendrickson as Grace Kimbrough, confidante and gadfly to the wife of Harry Lambert (Ken Thompson), the myopic and straight-laced husband whose tribulations in the face of middle-age paternity "split the seams all up and down Broadway." Mary Lee DeGrand as Edith Lambert, the meek mother who seizes the opportunity to gain long longed-for privileges during her husband's emotional limbo; Dr. Richard Rinehart as family friend Dr. James Kimbrough; Harold Olson as Charlie, Lambert's solitaire-addicted, pin-headed moocher of a son-in-law; Wanda Grabeau as Kate, Charlie's late-sleeping and undomestic wife and the Lambert's only child; Peter Mitchell as Mr. Foley; Arrol Beck as Mayor Crane; and Richard Puglisi as the policeman.

He apparently died of natural causes as he was getting ready for bed some 8 to 12 hours before his body was found, Dr. Gordon Franke, Allen County coroner said. An autopsy was scheduled today.

Franke said Foley was fully clothed and on his back on the bed when found by the motel manager who had been summoned by a maid after she was unable to enter the room.

Foley, whose gospel song "Peace in the Valley" was the first religious record to sell over a million copies, had given two performances in Fort Wayne Wednesday evening.

Delta Rainfall Heaviest In Area

By JOSEPH HEIRMAN
Delta Agricultural Agent

When in doubt about the weather, write about it.

We receive temperatures and precipitation results from 15 weather stations through the Michigan Crop-Weather Reporting Service. Looking over the last report, we note that the Escanaba Station recorded the most rainfall since April 1 of this year.

The record shows 23.52 inches of rain from April 1 through Sept. 15. The normal rainfall during this period is 16.37 inches. This means that this year we had 7 inches above normal.

Nobody knows this better than the potato growers. This year they did not irrigate and in a normal year they would try to put on at least three or four inches of water to keep the crop growing.

Weather stations only a short distance away did not experience a similar wet situation. For example, Traverse City which is just across Lake Michigan from Escanaba had below normal rainfall this summer. Their total rainfall for the same period (April 1-Sept. 15) was about one-half that recorded in Escanaba.

Most of the weather stations in the state recorded more rainfall this year, but for the most part it was about two inches above normal compared to Escanaba's seven inches. Had this happened during the winter months, sales for snow shovels and snow blowers would have been brisk.

Farmers are hoping for a let-up in rainfall to get crops harvested before freezing weather. Over the past two weeks some grain combines have been mired in the mud. The corn still has to go in the silo and the potato crop has to be harvested.

Delta County has 250,000 bushels of potatoes to come out of the ground. If the weather prevents the harvest it would be a terrific loss to the potato growers. So we say "Rain, rain go away, come again at a later date." The farmers want to harvest their crops.

Urge 'Yes' Vote On Uniform Time

The Board of Directors of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce recommend that Delta County retain Eastern Standard Time throughout the entire year and exempt itself from Daylight Time.

The Chamber further noted that on the Nov. 5 election on the issue "Shall Michigan exempt itself from the Daylight Saving Time National Law?" the voter must cast a "Yes" vote to qualify for a uniform time throughout the entire year.

Loggers' Comp Cut Needs Safety Drive

HOUGHTON — Safe equipment and safe practices are the major answer to Michigan's burdensome workman's compensation rates in the logging industry. This conclusion was reached by the Wisconsin-Michigan Section, Society of American Foresters, meeting Sept. 12-13 at Michigan Tech.

A series of demonstrations showing hazardous logging situations was offered at Tech's Ford Forestry Center, Albion, and a panel discussed problems relating to workman's compensation in the logging industry, with emphasis on the critical problems resulting from the high insurance base rate of $27.24 which employers must pay per $100 payroll.

The session, moderated by Prof. William Wynd of the Forestry Department at Tech, heard Dr. Gene A. Hesterberg, head of the MTU Forestry Department, say reduction of this insurance cost rate constitutes one of the U. P. logging operator's greatest opportunities to improve profits. At present, he said, Michigan operators suffer great disadvantage in competition with loggers in neighboring states where insurance rates are much lower.

Hesterberg added that Michigan's compensation insurance rates for the logging industry are the highest in the nation, noting in contrast that those applying to Wisconsin operators are only 41 per cent as high.

John C. Marshall, general manager of Michigan Workman's Compensation Rating Bureau, Detroit, told how workman's compensation laws are administered and compensation rates are developed. Reducing the number of serious accidents, he said, is the key to lowering the rates which employers must pay under workman's compensation laws.

Lloyd Palmer, executive secretary of the Timber Producers Association, Crandon, Wis., explained the basis for compensation rates in Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota. He cited the experience of Minnesota loggers, who found that carelessness and poor safety practices were responsible for increasing losses and higher compensation insurance rates. The Timber Producers Association then developed a code of safety rules which operators pledged to follow. This is having favorable results in Minnesota, he said.

Wisconsin offers examples useful in Michigan, Palmer explained. An example is strong safety code which operators must follow or suffer penalties. One of the main problems cited by Palmer is the failure of loggers with poor accident records to attend workshops on safety.

Donald Hoover, director of the Michigan Bureau of Safety and Regulation, Michigan Department of Labor, Lansing, announced that a seven-man committee will be named next week to develop a set of safety standards for Michigan, under the 1967 Michigan industrial safety law. One or more public hearings on the proposed standards will be held this fall, he said. He expects the code to become law by January or February, 1969. Violation would subject the operator or employee to prosecution.

Adrian J. DeVriend, forest utilization extension agent, University of Wisconsin, Hayward, summarizing the session, emphasized responsibility of the entire forest industry for reducing logging accidents. To deal with the problem of getting the safety message to those who most need it, he suggested a massive campaign utilizing signs and posters in the woods.

A WORKSHOP FOR League of Women Voters members and other interested persons was held from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. Wednesday at the new recreation building in Escanaba. Workshop session topics included, Michigan Courts, Foreign Policy, Human Resources, Water Resources and Membership. Many state League officers were present for the workshop. U. P. Meeting:

Women Voters Discuss Program

The League of Women Voters of the Upper Peninsula have the distinction of being the first group to enjoy the facilities of Escanaba's new recreation building, with members of the Leagues of the Copper Country, the Soo-Les Cheneux area. Escanaba, and women interested in organizing a League in Marquette, meeting at the Catherine Bonifas Civic Center on Wednesday.

Conducting workshops were members of the State League of Women Voters Board: Mrs. Robert Foersch, state president, Dearborn, Water Resources; Mrs. William Bishop, Traverse City, field service chairman; Mrs. Frank Power, Traverse City, Foreign Policy; Mrs. L. A. Reese, Okemos, Human Resources; Mrs. James Atkinson, Birmingham, Michigan Courts; and Mrs. Marvin Tomber, Okemos, Membership.

The 40 Leagues throughout the State have been studying the Michigan Courts as they relate to children and juveniles. By Dec. 1, they will have completed their studies and be ready to make recommendations for a State League position. The workshop group reviewed the consensus questions and discussion points so that when a position is taken at State Convention next spring, all Leagues will have had all the background information necessary to come to agreement—or to disagree, as sometimes happens.

The Human Resources group discussed the accessibility of housing, and possible tax changes in relation to financing and equalizing education. Ray LaPorte of the Community Action Agency met with them to discuss rural poverty in the Upper Peninsula.

The complications of import quotas and tariffs were first on the agenda of the Foreign Policy committee. Suggestions for presenting a program on China in a small League were presented. This is particularly pertinent as the Upper Peninsula Leagues are generally considered "small Leagues".

The women attending the membership workshop saw a new filmstrip put out by the Rock District Backs Industry Growth Plan

ROCK — The Rock Industrial Development Corp. has 44 members since it meeting in the Lions Club building on Tuesday night and that's about unanimous support for its venture to boost the economy of this village.

Paul Harkonen of UPCAP (Upper Peninsula Committee on Area Progress) who is a resident of Rock and secretary of the Rock IDC, presented two ideas to the meeting of community economic boosters:

1. The value of a local industrial development corporation and the steps necessary to incorporate it and select the initial board of directors and incorporators: Waino Bakka, John Norman, Paul Johnson, George Weingartner, and Harkonen.

2. The first industrial venture to be supported by the Rock IDC, which is the expansion program of K & K Manufacturing, Inc., of Rock.

"The rapid growth of this business," said Harkonen "requires more space to handle the large machine assemblies, vehicles, etc. which it is developing. The Small Business Administration has guided our Rock Organization to proceed via Act 502 funding, which they consider for the K & K expansion if it has the support of the community through this Industrial Development Corp." (Local investment through debentures in the amount of $6,000 would qualify for a $56,000 SBA loan.)

Harkonen presented the business prospectus of K & K, along with plans and descriptions of the new building proposed for its operations, and the investment pledge procedure was explained.

The Rock IDC elected as officers: Waino Bakka, president; John Norman, vice president; Leo Kulski, treasurer, and Harkonen, secretary.

Signup of pledges was started and supplies of pledge forms distributed and officers and directors of the Rock IDC were authorized to accept pledges from the people of the Rock area. The IDC will meet again the evening of Monday, Sept. 30.

Voting For President

People like to repeat the old saw about "Everybody complains about the weather, but nobody does anything about it."

It's a bit that way with the Electoral College. Actually there has been some change in the Electoral College since it was founded and there have been more unsuccessful attempts to change it since then, but it has not been amended since 1804.

It creeps, it should be amended, but amendment takes some doing because the system was twisted out of shape in the first place to grant special privileges and privilege dies hard.

It doesn't make much sense to most voters that they don't ballot directly for the President and Vice President. They cast their votes in the machine or on the ballot for the President and they think this action is translated directly into the election of the favorite, but it doesn't happen that way.

The President isn't elected by the popular ballot that will be cast next on Nov. 5, but by the presidential electors of the Electoral College elected then. They translate the popular vote into the official vote to elect the chief executive and the vice president.

Each state slate of Presidential electors is equal to the total number of the state's U. S. senators (2) and representatives. In Michigan this means 21 and their names aren't even on the ballot.

This system is obviously not "one-man-one-vote" because tiny states like Rhode Island get the two senators just like populous states like California and New York, so the electoral voting is not representative. Skimpily populated Nevada has 14 times as many electoral votes, proportionate to its population, as New York.

Another device that reduces proportionate representation is the bloc rule that gives all of a state's Electoral College votes to the winner of the state contest. Forty-one days after election the electors meet in their own state capitols and choose the President. They're free to elect anyone they want, but by custom they support the nominee to whom they're pledged in the November popular balloting.

The Electoral College was created in part because of the founding fathers' compromise between democratic popular self-rule and patrician rule by an elite leadership, but there was a more practical, less ethical and reprehensible reason. It was a plot to permit the Southern states to tally the slaves as citizens, but not to let them vote.

The South was enabled to count the population contribution of the slaves without letting them have the franchise. It was racist politics. The North went along and let the South manage its Negro problem which was to erupt so much later in a mass migration of the Negro field hands to the industrial cities of the North.

The Electoral College made it possible for a nominee who received the majority of the popular vote to lose the election. It happened to Samuel Tilden, Democratic governor of New York in 1876, (and an investor in Escanaba's Tilden House) who got 50.9 per cent of the popular vote but lost the White House to Ohio Republican Gov. Rutherford B. Hayes by one electoral vote. Tilden won with the people but not with the system.

George Wallace, the former governor of Alabama with his Independent Party campaign for the Presidency has revived some of the fears created by the 1876 election. He hasn't the strength to win the Presidency, but he could very conceivably win so many Southern votes with his racist policy of Negro segregation that he could deny an Electoral College majority victory to Nixon or Humphrey.

Failure to win in the electoral college would throw the election into the U. S. House of Representatives, where Wallace would expect to have strong bargaining powers as the states chose a President. In the House the 27 smallest states with only 17 per cent of the national population could, mathematically, name the President.

The Electoral College is not all bad. It is regarded as a crutch — maybe an indispensable one — for our two party system, but it was founded in deceit and it continues an inequity of representation and should be changed.

Polls show that 65 per cent of Americans want a change to direct election of the President. We move in that direction but the movement needs acceleration.

Neighborly Aid

Returning from a visit to five South American countries, Galo Plaza, secretary general of the Organization of American States, recently reported a "crisis of confidence" in that continent.

"There are signs," he warned, "that the people of Latin America who have looked to the Alliance (for Progress) are beginning to despair. Youth is growing restless and impatient at the growing gap between the have and the have-not nations."

Even as Plaza spoke, Congress was paring the fiscal 1969 foreign aid appropriation to a bare-bones figure. Latin America's share has been cut below the sums originally promised when the Alliance was created by President Kennedy.

The Alliance for Progress, like all foreign aid programs, is based on the assumption that money, wisely spent, will erase the social injustices and industrial backwardness on which the cancer of communism feeds. It is preventive medicine, designed to obviate the necessity for much more costly and dangerous operations in the future.

It is worthy of some kind of comment that at the same time as we are spending $30 billion a year on just such a major, and some say hopeless, operation in little Vietnam, we are prescribing less than $1.5 in preventive aid for South America.

Matchbook Collector Has Exacting Hobby

By JIM CROSSLEY
NEA Staff Writer

Collecting matchbooks seems about as difficult as accumulating paper clips. Not so. Golf looks easy, too.

Take Bill Wilson of Torrance, Calif. He's a "specialist" as opposed to a "generalist." His collection consists of U. S. Navy ships that have been sunk, scrapped, mothballed or sold to foreign navies and includes one from the USS Thresher, the submarine lost in 1963.

His is a tough specialty. There are 40 main categories collected by the hobbyists, ranging from airlines to banks and private clubs.

You might think a collector just stores his matches around the house in boxes, like so many piles of explosives. No. There's a general can practice here, as well.

When an item goes into a collection it must be perfect with no match ever having crossed the striker strip. It is "stripped and shucked"

SNAGGING SALMON

This noon on television I heard some comments against the State Conservation Department arresting fishermen for snagging salmon near the mouth of the Thompson River. I do not see why there should be any law against the snagging of salmon under certain conditions.

In Montana there is an open season for the taking of salmon by snagging. This is done in certain streams when the salmon are making their spawning run. A fisherman is allowed a certain number of salmon, either by hook and line with bait or by snagging. There are certain rules controlling the snagging.

Montana does not sell the salmon commercially. They belong to the sport fishermen. I do not see where the Department of Conservation has the right lawfully to take the salmon and sell them on the commercial market. They are doing this strictly as a business.

The salmon was brought in to Michigan as a sport fish and the bulk of the money spent on this program was sportsmen's money. If there are any surplus salmon in our waters the sport fishermen should have the right to take this surplus. The state should have the right to take what salmon are necessary to produce the spawn for propagation and that is all. There is no reason why Michigan should go into the commercial fish market. It is going to continue to be the sport fishermen's money that will carry on this fish program.

I understand there has been a commercial fish buyer's market located in Grand Rapids. This will be the clearing house for all salmon bought from the state. From this clearing house the salmon will be sold to commercial buyers from all over the state.

I think there should be a real investigation by the sportsmen into the ownership of this commercial buying center and into all other details connected with it.

Sportsmen, the salmon were brought into the State as a sport fish and with sportsmen's money and you sportsmen should have full use of these fish. The Department of Conservation plans on selling on the commercial market this fall in the neighborhood of 2 million pounds of salmon. They sold one million pounds last fall.

STUDENT

Our Escanaba Area Public High School is in trouble! I have watched the dilapidated state into which it is falling. I would like to clarify this statement by pointing out a few examples which I think everyone in the community should know.

People are up in arms about the bus cut, but do most people know the effect of the millage defeat on the average high school student? My answer to this is — no!

We were proud of our school once. In my younger years I thought "Eskey" was tops. Now things have changed. I realize that without funds we do not and will not have a school of which we can be proud.

We learn little because of the lack of teachers and the overstuffed classrooms. We have poor textbooks or in some cases none at all. We walk down our dusty halls and our pride falls another notch, because we realize this has happened because of a cut in the custodial staff.

We see grown people arguing and bickering amongst each other over the millage defeat instead of acting in an adult manner and sitting down and talking things over in an organized fashion.

Things like this make us wonder if we ever really want to become adults. A question: "Example is the best teacher?" If people would communicate properly this millage would be passed. Ask your children about this issue. See what they want and need to be able to compete in the future adult world. Vote to help them to help themselves.

on a display board. The staple holes are important, proving the cover is the genuine working article rather than a salesman's sample.

Fans get involved for fun rather than for profit. Even so, there are valuable covers.

For the Kennedy-Johnson inaugural banquet, 2,500 commemorative matchbooks were printed and next morning were marketable at $5 apiece. After the assassination, the price went to $25.

One that brings $100 is a Waldorf-Astoria Hotel original illustrated with Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis.

The Diamond Match Co. keeps a cover in a vault, insured for $25,000 and only displayed with two armed guards watching over it. Printed by members of an opera company in 1881 for their own use, it is believed to be the first of the small-lot specialties.

The national fan organization, the Rathkamp Match-cover Society — named in honor of the late Henry Rathkamp, a retired chief petty officer who originated it in 1939 — convenes in a different city annually. An auction is part of the proceedings and there's a bustle of swapping.

Most cities have clubs which meet monthly to gab. It is a near-perfect hobby with items everywhere (270 billion are manufactured each year.)

It is typical to get hooked by simply emptying the pockets of matches into a box or drawer over a period of time, then happening to see a pattern in them and starting hunting out one special category.

Like most hobbies, it's a great conversation starter but be prepared to overhear behind your back the whispered, "It collects matchcovers."

Good rubber bridge players seek overtricks when they can afford the luxury. Duplicate players go after them as if their life depends on it. Their duplicate success does.

South's three no-trump contract was rather standard in match point play. North made his move when he bid three clubs and gave up his suits when South rebid to three no-trump.

Four spades and five clubs make but no-trump counts more and is safer.

East won the first trick with the ace of diamonds and studied a long time before leading back his partner's suit. It was correct to study. A heart return would have been far better but East hoped that South did not have a sure diamond stopper.

West won the second trick with his king of diamonds and cleared the suit with a third lead.

South ran off his five clubs and West had to make four discards. He saw that he was going to be caught in a heart-spade squeeze and did the best he could by discarding the four and six of hearts first and his last two diamonds afterwards.

South cashed dummy's three top spades while West followed suit. This left South with nine tricks in and the ace queen of hearts left in his hand. He knew that West was holding just one heart and East two. West had dropped the two little hearts without a care in the world. Was he smart enough to unguard his king?

Probably not, thought South. Then South decided that four no-trump would be a good score in any event because only four spades could be made. He played his ace of hearts to insure four odd and was rewarded by an extra trick bonus when the king fell.

Made Over Nose Is Concern Of Suitor

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter Doris is 22, a college graduate, talented, and she has a world of friends. She began to date a very nice young man she met during her senior year at Stanford. He is now studying for the California State Bar examination.

Two months ago Doris and Sid decided to get married in January. We have met his people and they are extremely fine. Doris was walking on air and everything seemed perfect. Last night Sid called my husband and asked if they could have lunch today. The first thing Sid said to my husband was, "How bad was it?" My husband asked, "How bad was what?" Sid replied, "Doris' nose before she had it done." My husband was floored. He answered, "Well, I thought her nose was all right the way it was. In fact, it was like her mother's." Sid gasped, "That's what I was afraid of. Do you have pictures of Doris BEFORE?"

Sid then told my husband he had to consider their unborn children and allowed as how Doris should have told him she had had her nose remodeled before they became engaged. He considers her silence very dishonest. By this time my husband was pretty mad and told him off.

Doris is upstairs crying. Her father is begging her to break off the engagement. Sid now says he is sorry he brought it up and wants to marry Doris no matter what her nose looked like before. And I am writing to Ann Landers. Can you help? — NO CITY PLEASE

Dear No: Let Sid and Doris settle this. Everyone else should keep their noses out of it. Better the kids should inherit Doris' nose than Sid's brains.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband's parents feel they should have free access to our home at all times. Since they live near us, they are in and out as often as four times a day. Sometimes I don't even know anyone is in the house until I run into one of my in-laws in the bathroom or the kitchen. It's a frightening experience and happens quite regularly.

Recently I suggested that they should knock or use the bell. I was clobbered unmercifully by my husband. He informed me that his parents are not guests and that I had insulted them.

Am I wrong? If not, what is the solution? — NO PRIVACY

Dear No: Anyone who leaves doors open these days is lucky if he gets nothing worse than an unwelcome in-law. Even small towners who boasted not many years ago, "Nobody ever locks their doors here," have begun to use keys and safety chains. So lock up, Woman. Tell your husband times have changed.

Confidential to Should I Or Shouldn't I? You shouldn't. Telling everything one knows is not a sign of honesty. It is a sign of stupidity. You do not owe the gentleman the information he has been trying to wheedle out of you. If you are wise you'll tell him to stop pumping.

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage — What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Copyright 1968, Publishers-Hall Syndicate

Chevy Hints At Minicar Entry

DETROIT (AP) — Chevrolet gave its biggest hint to date Thursday that it is ready to jump into the minicar race.

E. M. "Pete" Estes, Chevrolet general manager and a vice president of General Motors, was asked at Chevrolet's press preview of its 1969 cars whether it was among those who planned a small subcompact car to compete with the imports, notably Volkswagen.

Estes replied: "You think we might be starting off again? I don't believe so but it could be. We are not planning on being behind anymore, regardless."

"That catchup on the Mustang was a little rugged, being 400,000 units behind a couple of years ago. It is not easy to do."

When a newsman asked, "Does that mean you are going to be ready first with a small car?" Estes replied, "We just announced the 1969 cars today."

Newsman felt the fact that Estes passed up a chance to squash the report lent credence to it.

Movie Industry Comes Up With Rating System

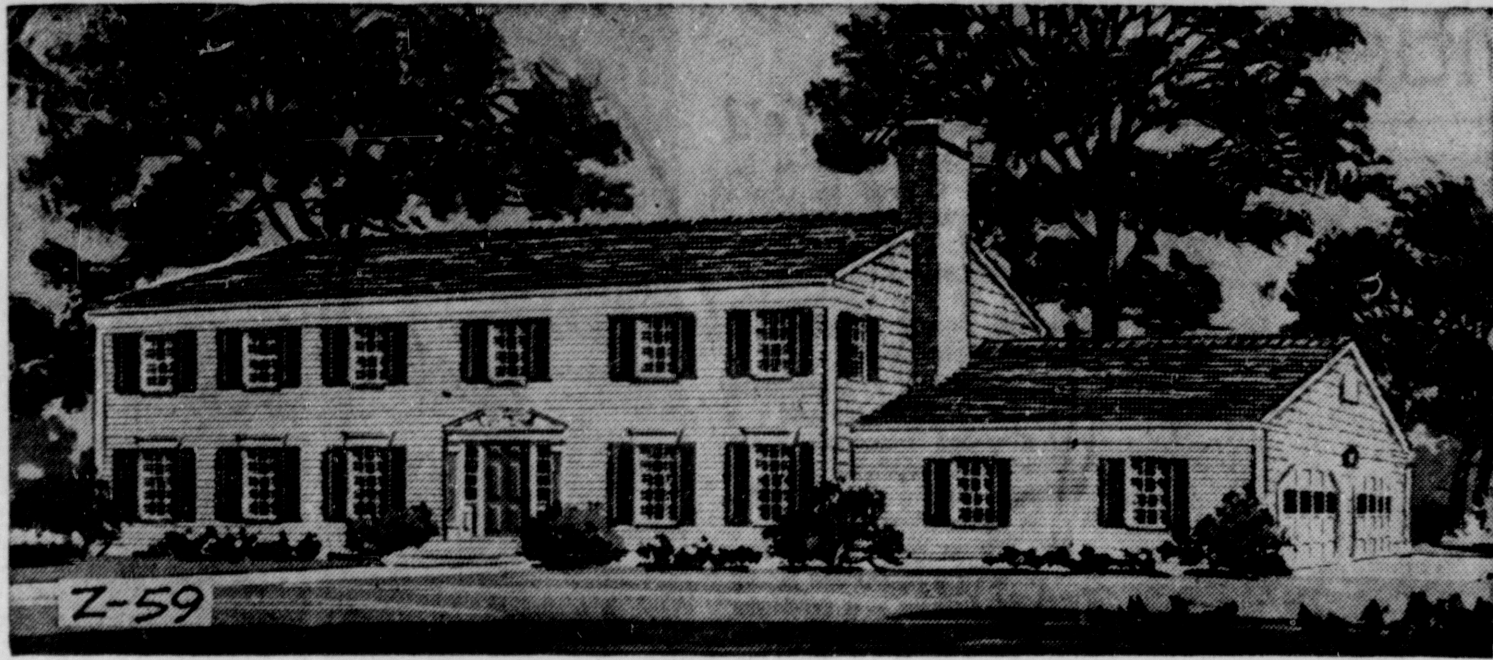

NEW YORK (AP) — The motion picture industry has come up with a new system for rating movies. Among the labels will be an X—meaning the movie isn't meant for anyone under 16.

The new system of the Motion Picture Code and Rating Administration is scheduled to be formally unveiled Oct. 7.

Among the highlights:

- A G rating meaning the movie is okay for everyone.
- An M label meaning the film is for mature audiences—adults and mature young people.
- An R meaning restricted and not for anyone under 16 unless accompanied by an adult.
- An X meaning the film is not for immature audiences.

Theater owners are expected to cooperate.

EARLY AMERICAN: Typical of many houses built during the Colonial days, this four-bedroom house has the traditional small-paned, shuttered windows, beveled red cedar clapboards accented with vertical corner boards and a general air of comfort and hospitality.

Emphasis Is On Livability

By ANDY LANG

Nobody has yet come up with a more economical way of housing a large family on a modest lot than with a two-story residence. And in these days of rising land prices, the financial advantage of one set of rooms atop another is greater than it ever was.

The latest House of the Week provides 1145 square feet of living area on each of its two floors, ample space for a family requiring four bedrooms. Yet this total of 2290 square feet is included within dimensions of 44' by 26'. Note that, although a two-car garage is shown in the plans, adding more than 24' to the frontage, the design is such that the garage can be omitted without altering the image of a homey Early American Colonial.

The sizable entrance foyer makes a fine reception area, with a clothes closet for guests and a stairway to the second floor. The living room, to the left of the foyer, has three windows, yet still has plenty of wall space for imaginative decorating. As the upper part of an L combination, the dining room is accessible to the kitchen as well as the living room.

A large kitchen includes a dinette area big enough to provide sufficient eating accommodations for the entire family, permitting the dining room to be reserved for more formal meals. Windows over the sink and in the dinette give plenty of natural light besides affording a view of the backyard. Close at hand is the stairway to the full basement.

DINETTE: Partial view of dinette shows only four chairs at the table, but the area is spacious enough to provide informal eating accommodations for twice as many.

FLOOR PLANS: The basic rectangular design helps to cut construction costs. First floor layout has center hall entrance, foyer and staircase, making for efficient circulation and distributing traffic effectively between the main living area and the second-floor bedrooms.

Z-59 STATISTICS

Design Z-59 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, dinette, family room, laundry and lavatory on the first floor, with a total of 1145 square feet. The same amount of habitable area is on the second floor, with its four bedrooms and two baths. The two-car garage shown in the plans has an entrance from the rear and has two steps leading to the laundry room. If the garage is built, the over-all dimensions, including the garage, are 68' 6" by 26'. Without the garage, the house is 44' by 26'. A full basement is included.

Mark Jewish New Year; A Time Of Hope, Trust

NEW YORK (AP) — Like a trumpet call, the sound is piercing, staccato, and the people pray. "May the solemn tones of the shofar arouse us from indifference, from indifference and from selfish ease."

The blast from the ram's horn—a call to conscience—marks the start at sundown this Sunday of a period of reassessment and stock-taking, Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year.

It's a time of hope and trust, but as leaders of the faith surveyed conditions in the nation and the world, they saw widespread danger and depredation. America faces "both challenges and uncertainties," said Arthur J. Goldberg, former U.S. Supreme Court Justice and United Nations ambassador, now president of the American Jewish Committee.

Meet Commitments
"Abroad, we have yet to fix on a course of action that will bring peace; at home, we have yet to devise ways of meeting our commitments to our own citizens."

Yet, in the rudiments of men's religion, confidence persists, no matter how grim the circumstances, and that basic hopefulness sounded in the messages of the Jewish observance.

Yet, in the rudiments of men's religion, confidence persists, no matter how grim the circumstances, and that basic hopefulness sounded in the messages of the Jewish observance.

"Hope is a duty, especially when doom seems inevitable," said Rabbi Levi A. Olan, of Dallas, Tex., president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, representing the clergy of Reform Judaism.

"The fierce conflict and terrible agony of our times are in themselves testament to hope. Much of the violence and disorder is in oppression, in unnecessary poverty, colonial slavery, or under political and economic tyranny."

Simple Ceremony
In Jewish homes around the globe, Rosh Hashanah begins at sunset with a simple ceremony of prayer and symbolism—the lighted candles on white tablecloths, the sliced apple dipped in honey, signifying hope for a "sweet" year.

Then families go to the synagogues, where the sharp blowing of the shofar sounds its summons to re-examine attitudes and conduct, to repent of past wrongs and to rededicate oneself to God's purposes and principles.

"Help us, O God, to understand," the congregations pray, "that injustice and hate will not forever afflict the sons of men; that righteousness and mercy will triumph in the end."

Yom Kippur
The observance is the beginning of a 10-day period of introspection and penitence, the "Days of Awe," culminating in Yom Kippur, the "day of Atonement," of divine forgiveness for man's failings and assurance of continued care for him.

Jewish tradition holds that man's fate is written down at the start of the period, and sealed at its close.

Services in many synagogues this year will include special prayers for peace in the Middle East and Vietnam, for reconciliation of the races in this country, and for liberty and justice for people in Communist nations.

Dismissed Priest Wants To Marry, Stay In Church

LANSING (AP) — A Catholic priest who wants to get married but stay in the clergy discussed his case today with his superior, Bishop Alexander Zaleski.

The bishop fired the priest, the Rev. Kenneth Favor, from his post as chaplain of an inner city community center after he asked for permission to wed.

Father Favor had served as chaplain of the Cristo Rey Community Center since 1962 until his removal last Sunday. The next morning, however, he was rehired as the "educational coordinator" for the center by its director, T. Benjamin Canaday.

It was last June, Father Favor said, when he first made his request to Bishop Zaleski but was told he should seek release from his priestly vows rather than to request that he continue his work as a married priest.

Father Favor insisted he would not leave the church under any circumstances. But "for the church's own good," he said, he would like to see present church law changed. Currently, a married clergy is forbidden in the Roman Catholic rite except in cases the Vatican considers exceptional.

Father Favor said he followed up his original verbal request with one in writing last week, asking the bishop to "support me in urging a change in the law of the church which forbids priests to marry, and to forward my request for permission to marry to the Holy See."

Bishop Zaleski contacted Father Favor to set up today's meeting, the priest said. The bishop was unavailable for comment.

Ray Trial Judge Cites Four Men For Contempt

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Two newspapermen, a lawyer and a private detective have been ordered to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court for violating a ban on out-of-courtroom news statements in the case of James Earl Ray.

Criminal Court Judge W. Preston Battle, who is scheduled to hear Ray's trial on charges of killing Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., issued the show cause orders.

Battle ordered the four men, including Ray's chief defense counsel, Arthur J. Hanes Sr., of Birmingham, Ala., to appear before him Sept. 27.

In addition to Hanes, a former Birmingham mayor, those cited were Renfro T. Hays, a private detective working for Hanes, and Charles Edmundson of the Memphis Commercial Appeal and Roy Hamilton of the Memphis Press-Scimitar.

Auto Industry Keeps Hot Pace

DETROIT (AP) — The auto industry kept up its accelerated production pace this week, turning out the six-millionth car of the calendar year.

Automotive News said 179,178 autos would be produced this week, compared with 156,245 last week and 147,541 in the corresponding week of last year.

In 1967, however, Ford Motor Co. was shut down by a strike of United Auto Workers.

When the six-millionth car rolled off the line Wednesday, it was 46 days ahead of its 1967 counterpart, which was built Nov. 3.

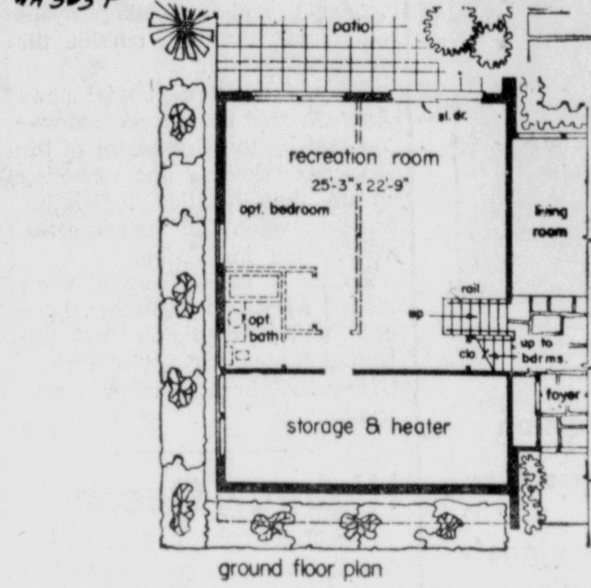

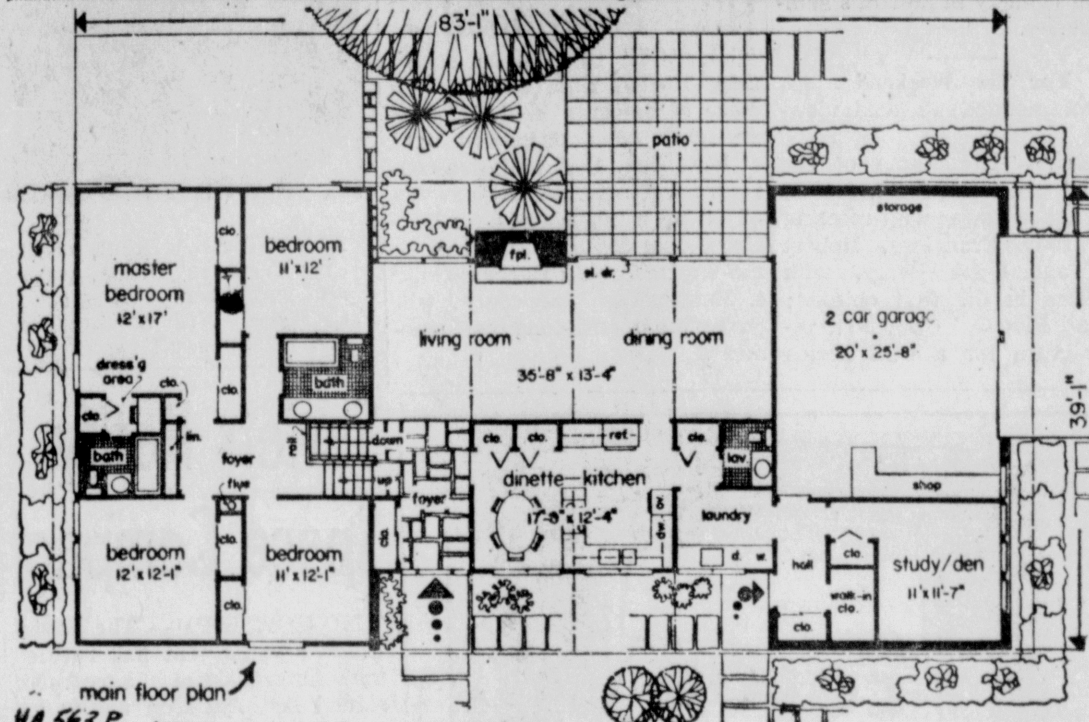

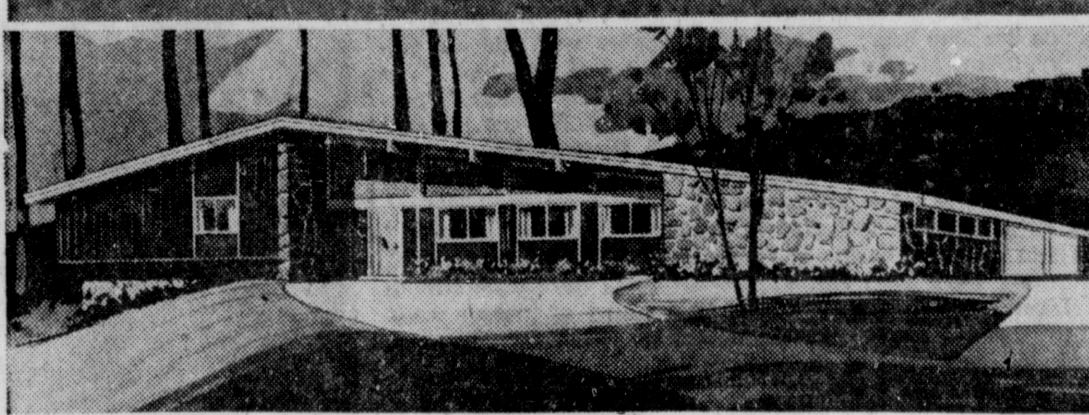

Calendar - year production climbed to 6,092,300 with this week's turnout. This compared with 5,154,709 for the same period one year earlier.

15 Pistols Stolen

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Fifteen dueling pistols were reported stolen from the home of Paul Lashley of St. Louis.

The guns were antiques from the 17th and 18th century and were worth more than $7,000, Lashley said. Also missing was $500 from a second floor bedroom desk.

Announce Third Cancer Survey

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A detailed study to be made of all cancer cases occurring in 11 areas of the United States from 1969 to 1971 was announced Thursday.

The third national cancer survey, to be directed by Dr. John C. Bailar III, of the National Cancer Institute, will update similar projects completed in 1937 and 1947.

For the first time, a sample of cases among an estimated population of more than 22 million will be studied in detail to determine the economic effect of cancer on the individual, his family and the community, Bailar said.

Areas to be surveyed in the three-year project are Birmingham, Ala.; Atlanta, Ga.; Detroit, Mich.; Dallas and Fort Worth, Tex.; Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minn.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; San Francisco and Oakland, Calif.; Iowa, Colorado and Puerto Rico.

Striking Teachers Lose Bargaining Rights; New Rule

By The Associated Press
A crucial schools ruling by a State Labor Mediation Board trial examiner will be appealed to the board's full membership, according to a lawyer representing the Michigan Education Association.

In his ruling last week, James R. McCormick stated that school boards do not have to bargain with striking teachers.

"Teacher strikes are illegal in every case," he stated.

"In my opinion...unlawful strike action relieves the public employer, for the duration of the strike, from an obligation to confer" with the teachers.

Strikes are prohibited by the state Public Employment Relations Act. The act gives teachers the right to organize and bargain collectively.

McCormick's decision grew from a hearing on unfair labor practice charges brought by the Saginaw Township Education Association against the Saginaw Township School Board.

Andy Lang Has Answer

By ANDY LANG
QUESTION—We are getting ready to do over our main bedroom. The walls are of regular plaster and are painted an off-white. We plan on using a slightly pinkish color (my wife talked me into that), but we aren't sure whether we will use paint or wallpaper of that shade.

The problem is that there are quite a few cracks in the plaster, some small, some fairly wide, but none really large. If we paint, we know we'll have to patch the cracks. Can you give us some advice on that and also tell us whether it will be necessary to patch the cracks if we decide to use wallpaper?

ANSWER: The plaster should be repaired whether you use paint or wallpaper. The kind of patching plaster that comes in small containers, usually a form of cardboard, will be satisfactory. It is a powdery substance that requires only mixing with water before using. When patching the small hairline-type cracks, the mixture should be fairly watery so that it can be easily pressed into the openings.

The larger gaps present a different problem. They should be undercut first; that is, opened a little further so that the edges of the plaster slant inward. This will enable the patching material to remain in place while it is hardening. Also, the mixture should be firmer than for the tiny openings but still loose enough to be worked easily.

The patch should be a fraction of an inch above the surface. This will take care of shrinkage and at the same time permit sanding to bring the patch even with the surrounding area. Before any of this is done—in face, before you even make the mixture—remove all loose bits of plaster from each opening, then soak the indentation with clean water.

When the patch is hard and dry to the touch, soak it again. Later, apply a primer to the repair. When that is dry, go ahead with the painting.

NBC Keeps Its Thursday Lineup

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) — NBC had some good shows going for it on Thursday nights last season, so the network has renewed the lineup for another season.

It started with the season's premiere of "Daniel Boone," a diversion for the children's audience.

Then along came "Ironside" with a classy demonstration in its season premiere that an action series really doesn't have to have a big windup shootout or slugging match to keep the audience from shifting to another channel.

"Ironside" was concerned with a matching of wits between a master jewel thief, arrogant and cool, and that wise and canny defender of law and order, Chief Ironside.

Of course there was never any doubt about which one would finally prevail. The thief wanted to steal a jewel collection worth $7 million while it was in transit. Ironside knew a heist was in the wind and took precautions to prevent it.

He handled his assignment by setting up a couple of fake cases of jewels and sending both the fakes and the real jewels off by various methods of transportation. The thief had to pick the vehicle with the real jewels—a nice switch on the old shell game.

After that "Dragnet" came along with its first new show of the season. Both last season and now in this debut, Jack Webb and company seem more interesting in using the half hour to lecture the public on police work and the aims of law enforcement than to tell a story.

Slides Up Pole

Thursday night's show had Sergeant Friday and his sidekick Gannon serving as members of a TV panel discussing "The Fuzz: Who Needs Them?" The moderator and the other two panel members—all very avant garde types with beards—were very much against the buttoned-down police types. But, boy, did Friday and Gannon give them what for!

"Dragnet" is a big drag when it gets on the soap box.

Finally, Dean Martin strolled back on the NBC screen with his usual mix of music and comedy. Nothing in the format has changed except that this season Dean was able to make his entrance by sliding up that fireman's pole instead of down.

His guests were Lena Horne, Zero Mostel—in a couple of sketches that never even touched his talents—and Barbara Heller, who was a favorite for her comedy in Martin's summer series.

Saturday—"Adam 12," premiere, NBC, 7:30-8 p.m. EDT, police stories with Martin Miller as a prowl car cop; "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir," premiere, NBC, 8:30-9 comedy fantasy with Hope Lange and Edward Mulhare as a 100-year-old ghost.

Sunday—"Land of Giants," premiere, ABC, 7-8 p.m. EDT, fantasy about earthlings stranded on a planet of giants; piano concert by Vladimir Horowitz, CBS, 9-10.

Hike Postponed

DETROIT (AP) — A scheduled 25-cent increase in the price of haircuts in the Detroit area has been postponed until at least Nov. 1. A tentative contract agreement has been reached between negotiators for Barbers Local 552 and members of the Wayne County Barbers Guild 4. Ratification procedure will cause the month-long postponement.

Lincoln Park School Pact Vote Set Today

By The Associated Press
Striking teachers and the Lincoln Park Board of Education reached tentative agreement on a contract Thursday night.

Board President Richard Richardson said the agreement followed day-and-night negotiations. Details of the proposed contract were withheld pending a ratification meeting by the district's 590 teachers today.

The agreement was reported after an official of the state auditor general's office stepped in to look at the district's financial books and reported his findings.

Meanwhile, Lt. Gov. William Milliken meets late today at the governor's offices at Lansing with mediators involved in three other school district strikes in Wayne County.

Milliken asked for the session with mediators from the Trenton, Ecorse and Taylor districts "to get a complete analysis" of the stalemates.

At Lincoln Park, the books were reviewed by Emil E. Tahvonen, deputy director of the local audit division of the State Treasury Department.

He reported that the Lincoln Park board had an estimated $141,500 more available income than the board had been using as a basis for negotiations.

Altogether, Tahvonen said, the board could have $555,579 available for possible pay raises. A spokesman for the teachers had complained the board was unwilling to make the additional money available. A board spokesman later said the money was put on the bargaining table.

Lloyd Recovering From Operation

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Harold Lloyd, the old-time movie comedian, is up and around part of the time and "getting along very nicely" after surgery, his wife Mildred said Thursday. Lloyd, 75, is recovering at home. His horn-rimmed glasses and bumbling, hair-breadth escapes delighted silent film audiences.

The surgery involving the urinary tract was performed 10 days ago at a Santa Monica hospital.

Soviets Ratify Space Compact

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's parliament has ratified the international agreement signed last April on aiding astronauts and returning space equipment that fall outside the country of origin.

Tass, the official Soviet news Agency, said the agreement was ratified by the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet, the working group that handles legislative matters when the Supreme Soviet is not in session.

Copies of the agreement were signed April 22 in Moscow, London and Washington by the United States, the Soviet Union, Great Britain and other countries.

Way Out Teacher Has Kids Coming

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Sarah Short says her students rarely cut her home economics courses at Syracuse University. Small wonder.

Tuesday, for example, Mrs. Short, her blonde hair trailing below her shoulders, false gold eyebrows glittering in the sunlight, wearing sandals, light blue slacks, a silver Nehru jacket and love beads, roared into class on a motorcycle.

The 50 wide-eyed students were entranced as the mother of three zipped down the sloping stairway leading to the lecture in the school of journalism's electronic classroom, where her class was held.

After she distributed bubble gum to her class, psychedelic style films were projected simultaneously on three walls in the room, 11 projectors beamed slides to the ceiling, and two overhead projectors bathed the room in brilliant color patterns.

"This is a required course," she told a reporter, "so I have to keep students from cutting classes."

"And you know, they never do cut my classes, because they don't want to miss out on any of it."

Harpsichord Plant Shelters Women

NEW YORK (AP) — The city's Board of Estimate agreed Thursday to rent a harpsichord factory to house derelict and homeless women now staying in a Bowery hotel, most of whose tenants are male.

The city Department of Social Services rents about 30 rooms a night to the women and the State of New York—which foots part of the bill—has objected to the practice.

The four-story harpsichord factory will be rented for 15 years at $60,000 a year.

Mountaineers, Maroons Lead Grid Statistics

Escanaba and Kingsford are the only teams left in the Great Northern Conference race without a loss and one of them will drop from that ranking after tomorrow's game at Escanaba when the two square off.

The Eskymos have played only one conference to date, that a 27-7 victory over Menominee two weeks ago. Kingsford has not played a Great Northern Conference opponent yet and hold a 0-2-1 mark in season play.

West Iron County, Menominee and Iron Mountain all sport 1-1 marks and Holy Name is at the bottom with a 0-1.

In addition to the Escanaba-Kingsford game, Holy Name will host Menominee Saturday night. Iron Mountain is not scheduled this weekend.

Pat Collins of Menominee holds the rushing lead with 169 yards in 37 carries, followed by Doug Schupp of Iron Mountain with 155 yards in 14 carries and Dewey Bellisle of Menominee with 132 yards in 35 carries. Schupp has the longest run from scrimmage, a 92-yard touchdown run against Holy Name.

Bob Palomaki of Iron Mountain has completed 16 passes in 34 attempts for 211 yards and one touchdown to hold the lead in the passing department over Bob McGinn of Holy Name. McGinn has hit 10 of 20 attempts for 89 yards and no touchdowns.

Three griders are tied for the conference scoring lead with John Benso of Iron Mountain, Jim Olsen of Escanaba and Bellisle of Menominee all tallying 12 points. Dan Mylander of Escanaba follows the three leaders with nine points.

Benso and Tom Brown of Menominee lead the receivers with six catches apiece. Benso has picked up a total of 78 yards to Brown's 77. Dan Patrick of Holy Name is third with 67 yards on five catches.

because the greens are very small," Dave Hill said.

The Hills are both listed in the top 60 money winners for the year. Dave is 43rd with winnings of $31,439 while Mike is 55th with $25,488.

Palmer, who was up until almost midnight Wednesday, didn't show his fatigue over the Twin Hills course.

The popular golfer was in a meeting of the American Professional Golfers Association for almost three hours Wednesday night and then spent another hour discussing the meeting with newsmen.

"These nights are killing me," he said, "I've got to get some rest."

Palmer said jokingly there would be no more meetings for him until after the team championship ends Sunday.

Scores at Quail Creek Thursday were higher than those at Twin Hills. The best score at Quail Creek was a 66 by Lou Graham and Steve Spray.

They were tied for fourth place with the teams of Jim Ferrier and Larry Mowry, Tommy Aaron and Charles Coody, and Bob Dickson and Labon Harris Jr.

Billy Casper, the top money winner on the PGA circuit this year, team with Gay Brewer to shoot a 68 at Quail Creek.

Masters champion Bob Gouby and partner Mason Rudolph were in trouble at Quail Creek and shot a 73, while U.S. Open champ Lee Trevino and Homer Blancas carded a 73 at Twin Hills.

The field of 124 teams will be cut to 60 after today's second round, with golfers changing courses for play. The final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be over the Quail Creek course.

DENNY McLAIN, right, is congratulated by catcher Jim Price as the Detroit Tiger pitcher walks off the field after beating the New York Yankees to pick up his 31st win of the season. The last pitcher in the American League to win 31 games was Lefty Grove in 1931. (AP Wirephoto)

College Football Opens First Big Grid Weekend

By The Associated Press
Five, four, three, two, one, blast off. That's the way the college football season will get underway Saturday for its first big weekend.

All top five preseason picks in The Associated Press poll will be in action and all but first-ranked Purdue look to have their hands full getting off the launching pad.

One team will have to fall back when third-rated Notre Dame and fifth-ranked Oklahoma clash at South Bend, Ind.

The Irish rule better than a touchdown favorite with their Terry Haratty-led offense, despite losing much of the defense that sparked them to an 8-2 record in 1967.

Purdue, boasting halfback Leroy Keyes, the nation's leading scorer in 1967, is expected to have little trouble with visiting Virginia.

O.J. Simpson, like Keyes another holdover All-American, might have to provide plenty of spark for Southern California as the second-ranked Trojans travel to Minnesota, No. 16, Texas, No. 4, might have still more problems with No. 11 Houston, which opened its season last week with a rout over Tulane.

Other top teams in action include Penn State, No. 10, which hosts Navy, and 15th-ranked Indiana, last year's Cinderella club, which goes against visiting Baylor.

UCLA, No. 16, without Heisman Trophy winner Gary Beban, tackles hopeful Pittsburgh at home Saturday night.

Northwestern takes on 19th-ranked Miami of Florida in Florida tonight.

Notre Dame will have Hanra-ty, split end Jim Seymour and running backs Bob Gladieux and Jeff Zimmerman, but gone are All-American tackle Kevin Hardy and most of the linebackers and defensive backs of last season.

Oklahoma will be missing Granville Liggins, an All-American defensive lineman, and three veteran linebackers, but the Sooners lack little on offense. Back are quarterback Bob Warkack, wingback Eddie Hinton and Big Eight rushing champion Steve Owens at full-back.

"We're in pretty good shape on offense," said Notre Dame coach Ara Parseghian, "but on defense there are just so many things that can happen with inexperienced players that the whole game plan can be changed."

Should Notre Dame get by Oklahoma, the going only gets rougher with Purdue's next opponent.

The Boilermakers, with Keyes moving between running back and flanker this year and sophomore quarterback sensation Mike Phipps back after tying for the Big Ten title last season, still can't take Virginia too lightly.

The Cavaliers, with the nation's second-best pass defense in 1967, also feature Frank Quaye at tailback. He has run for 1,482 yards and 21 touchdowns in two seasons.

Southern Cal, aiming for another trip to the Rose Bowl, will be missing All-Americans Ron Yary and Adrian Young, but O.J. is back to run at the all-ways-tough Minnesota defense.

Texas will send quarterback Bill Bradley and running back Chris Gilbert at Houston, which is without Warren McVea. But the Cougars still have Paul Gipson, who ran for 115 yards, and Elmo Wright, who caught two long touchdown passes, in last week's 54-7 cruise over Tulane.

In other games, the Citadel will be at Army, Air Force and Florida tangle at Tampa, Fla., Florida State travels to Maryland, Michigan State hosts Syracuse, Kansas plays at Illinois, Texas Christian visits Georgia Tech and Oregon State is at Iowa.

Members of the Skyline Conference are Carney, Champion, Channing, Felch, Hermansville, National Mine, Pembine, Powers and Republic.

Impressive Rookie Gets Starting Job

LONDON, Ont. (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings meet the Boston Bruins in an exhibition hockey game at London today, with a 22-year-old rookie left winger in the lineup after an impressive showing at training camp.

Hank Monteith, who scored 19 goals and had 31 assists last year with Detroit's farm club at Fort Worth, moved into the left wing spot which had been held by rookie Craig Reichmuth.

Alex Delvecchio, captain of the National Hockey League Wings, skated for the first time Thursday in a training session at Port Huron after missing six days while recovering from minor surgery.

Goalie Roy Edwards took part in scrimmage after recovering from virus pneumonia.

Wounded Dolphins Face Raiders In AFL Contest

By The Associated Press
American Football League schedule makers sure know how to hurt a guy when he's hurt.

No less than five of Miami's starters are laid up with various injuries, which ordinarily would put the anemic Dolphins in a critical state.

But the men who make up the schedule have added a cruel twist—they've paired Miami against awesome Oakland Saturday night.

The Raiders opened their bid for another AFL championship last weekend with a 48-6 humiliation of Buffalo. Miami, meanwhile, dropped its opener to Houston 24-10.

Houston, 1-1, plays at San Diego, 1-0, in Saturday night's only other AFL game. Sunday, Buffalo, 0-2, visits Cincinnati, 1-1; Denver, 0-1 goes to Kansas City, 1-1, and New York, 1-0, takes on Boston, 1-0, at Birmingham, Ala.

In the National League, eight games are scheduled Sunday—Baltimore, 1-0, at Atlanta, 0-1; Chicago, 0-1, at Detroit, 0-1;

McLain Hurls 31st; Mantle Belts 535th

DETROIT (AP) — Denny McLain was seven years old when Mickey Mantle broke into the American League in 1951 with New York. And as Mantle rounded the bases Thursday in Detroit with his 535th career home run, the 24-year-old McLain stood on the mound saluting his boyhood idol.

There were hints the Tigers pitcher had just served a gopher ball to Mantle on a silver platter.

But it didn't affect the outcome of the game—Detroit won 6-2 for its ninth straight victory.

The homer made Mantle the third greatest home run hitter in baseball history, behind Babe Ruth and Willie Mays and "Is he (Mantle) still your idol?" McLain was asked after the game.

"He still is," McLain said. "I got a feeling he wanted me to hit it." Mantle said later in the Yankee dressing room.

Mantle Motions
Detroit was leading 6-1 in the eighth inning when, with an 0-2 count, Mantle motioned with his hand for McLain to give him a letter-high pitch.

Mickey then blasted the next pitch in the upper deck in rightfield as the crowd roared. "I think it was just a straight ahead of Jimmy Foxx.

fast ball," he said. "It's got to be one of the best thrills I've had in baseball."

McLain smilingly denied to newsmen that he deliberately threw a pitch that Mantle could surely blast into the stands.

"You don't think I'd deliberately throw him a home run ball, do you?" McLain grinned.

"There would be a scandal and an immediate investigation of baseball."

McLain, who holds the Tiger record for most home run pitches (42 in 1966) and has given up 31 this year, said the last one wasn't anything special "but this one I'll remember a little bit more."

An usher gave first base umpire Hank Soar the ball Mantle hit and he in turn gave it to Mickey.

Someone asked McLain if he would like to have the ball. "I'd like to have that ball all right," he said, "just to see what it looked like."

Goes Distance
Meanwhile, McLain became only the eighth American League pitcher this century to win 31 games as he went the distance for the 28th time this year. It was the 12th consecutive complete game for Tiger starters.

Manager Mayo Smith said he was going to pull him about halfway through the game so his relief pitchers could get a chance. The last time a relief pitcher was used was Sept. 4.

"But after he pitched the seventh inning Denny said he wanted to finish, so I left him in," Smith said.

"I haven't pitched in five days, that's why I wanted to go all the way," McLain said. "I was just out there for the exercise. I'm trying to get back in shape after these last two days. I must have gained 10 pounds."

He was referring to the celebrating following Tuesday night when Detroit clinched the pennant.

Smith said John Hiller, Pat Dobson and Don McMahon will rotate in a single game during the three-game Washington series which begins tonight in the nation's capital. Mickey Lolich (15-9) was expected to pitch the first game.

Cash Homers
In Thursday's game, a make-up of the one rained out Wednesday night, Norm Cash put the Tigers ahead in the fourth inning with a home run in the lower left field seats off Yankee starter Mel Stottlemyre.

New York tied it in the sixth on a double to Jake Gibbs, a walk to Mantle, a single to Joe Pepitone, a fielder's choice at the plate off the bat of Bill Robinson and a walk to Tom Tresh.

But in the bottom of the inning Cash hit a homer off Stottlemyre, his 24th of the year, into the lower left center field seats, after Mickey Stanley had walked. Jim Northrup doubled and Eddie Mathews singled him home for the third run of the inning.

Stanley, the regular center-fielder, played at shortstop as Mayo Smith put in a makeshift lineup and used most of his reserves.

The Tigers got their final two runs in the seventh off reliever Dooley Womack. Dick McAuliffe walked, Al Kaline doubled, then Wayne Comer, who had gone into the game earlier in left field, singled them both home.

McLain scattered eight hits and struck out seven batters to move within three of the Tiger all time season record of 275 set by Hal Newhouse in 1946. His record is now 31-5.

Stottlemyre was tagged for eight hits and four runs and took the loss, his 12th against 20 victories.

The "crowd" of 9,000 was quite a contrast to the 46,500 who turned out Tuesday night. But fans were kept away by Wednesday night's rainout and more threatening rain clouds Thursday.

Thompson Cohos Feature Fishing

Fishing effort has been replaced considerably by hunting and football but the coho craze still provides the adrenalin to keep the borderline anglers from going astray.

Coho (Silver) Salmon: The Thompson Creek area is still providing very good fishing. Some of the 1968 "Jacks" have been noted coming in the past week. A few coho have been reported caught in the St. Martins Bay area off the mouth of the Carp River near St. Ignace and fishermen have noted cohos porpoising in the area of Pen-dills Bay (Lower Whitefish Bay) of Lake Superior. Spawn bags or a combination of spawn bags and night crawlers have been found to be a good lure to take coho on. A couple coho were reported caught at the Eleven Michigan doctors of medicine, including Dr. Armand M. LaSorsa of Manistique, who have served as volunteers in Vietnam this past year will be honored at the Michigan State Medical Society meeting in Detroit on Sept. 22-26.

The Michigan physicians each served two-month stretches for a total of 22 months. The awards are "Certificates for Humanitarian Service," and recognize the doctors of medicine "for treating the ill and injured during his medical mission."

The AMA Physicians Volunteers for Vietnam Program began three years ago and has sent more than 500 doctors to help the civilians in South Vietnam.

"Physicians are divided in their opinions about the merits of the war in Vietnam but they continue to recognize the needs of the civilian population caught up in the effects of the war," explained Dr. B. M. Harris, Ypsilanti, president of the state medical society.

Hearing Opened In School Busing Suit

By DAVE ANDREWS

MARQUETTE — The secretary of the Escanaba Area Public Schools Board of Education, Dr. Donald Alimenti, and Superintendent of Schools Luther Barrett were witnesses today at the opening of a "show cause" hearing on school busing before Circuit Judge Bernard Davidson in Marquette.

Delayed because of criminal matters before the Marquette Court, the hearing did not get under way until 11 a. m., was adjourned at noon, and resumed at 1:30 p. m.

The two witnesses were called by Atty. Nino Green, who represents 10 Delta County mothers and their 44 children, plaintiffs in the action seeking to have school bus operation resumed.

Mothers In Court

Dr. Alimenti, testified regarding board action and policy, using the board's 1968 minutes (which were admitted as plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1) as source of testimony.

Supt. Barrett testified concerning the school district's financial position and its budgeting problems, which caused the board to suspend bus transportation to avoid deficit spending.

The School District's counsel is Atty. Thomas Nordberg, of the legal firm of F. M. Thrun, Lansing.

The 10 plaintiff mothers were present in the court room, but not their 44 children. By stipulation the facts of the case were agreed upon, including the fact the buses are not operating.

All members of the Board of Education and Supt. Barrett were present in the court.

Expert Retained

Nordberg, an expert in school law, was retained by the Board of Education at a special meeting Monday to represent the Escanaba Area district, the members of the school board and Barrett.

The suit was filed last week in Circuit Court in Delta County after the school board in a 4 to 3 vote rejected a proposal for immediate restoration of bus service.

Bus transportation was eliminated from school services as part of over $200,000 in spending reductions ordered after the Aug. 19 millage defeat. Parents from rural areas affected by the transportation cutback protested to no avail at the Sept. 10 board meeting.

The suit charged that children of rural areas are being effectively denied a public education because of the location of their residences. It said that the families listed do not have sufficient financial ability other transportation to classes on a sustained basis.

Green, while conceding that the Board of Education does have a certain degree of discretionary power in matters like student transportation, said the bus cutback was an "abuse" of that power.

Respect "Mandate"

The hearing today was called to give the Board of Education opportunity to "show cause" why a Writ of Mandamus should not be issued ordering resumption of the bus transportation program.

In making the spending cuts, the Board of Education said it was following the public "mandate" to reduce school spending to the level of income. The Board in advance of the millage election said it would implement the cutbacks if the tax proposal was defeated.

The Escanaba Area school district operated in 1967-68 at a deficit and the board's position was that it would not continue to operate on a deficit financing basis.

HOUSE REPUBLICAN LEADER Gerald C. Ford, R-Mich., displayed a huge gavel today as he presided over a news conference with other House Republican leaders. The group placed great emphasis on winning control of the House in the November election but also stressed the importance of gaining a majority in at least 26 states. Representing the various county OEDP committees were: Alger County—George Chudacoff, chairman; Richard Berndt, vice-chairman; Valeta Johnson, secretary; Leo Gariepy, treasurer. Marquette County—J. Dompiere, alternate for Ernest Ronn, chairman; Melvin Nyquist, vice-chairman; Jerry DeGabriele, secretary-treasurer. Menominee County—Melvin Fazer, chairman; Myron Ross, vice-chairman; Francis Menacher, secretary. Schoolcraft County—Ralph Gillam, vice-chairman.

Since reorganization of county OEDP's in Dickinson and Delta has not been completed, key public officials were invited to attend. Wayne Nelson, County Planning Commission, represented Dickinson County. Myron Ross, Menominee County, was elected chairman; Richard Berndt, Alger County, vice-chairman; Frank Mead, Marquette County, secretary; and Ralph Gillam, Schoolcraft County, treasurer.

U. P. Board

The organization agreed to set up the Central U. P. EDD on a basis of equal representation and equal financial participation for each county. The governing board will be composed of five representatives from each county's OEDP committee, including the four county OEDP officers. Further, it was agreed that seven members shall constitute the executive committee of the district, to be elected by the governing board.

The four officers of the district were elected, however, it was agreed that the other three positions would be left vacant pending the completion of the Dickinson and Delta County OEDP committees. Final approval of a proposed budget for the district and application to EDA for the necessary funding grants.

The Central District, composed of Alger, Delta, Dickinson, Marquette, Menominee, and Schoolcraft counties, has been going through procedures of county Overall Economic Development Planning (OEDP) Committee organization for the past five months. County OEDP committees were completed and invitations extended to all officers for this district meeting on Sept. 9.

Central District

This timing permitted formation of the Central U. P. Economic Development District in time to submit funding proposals to EDA for consideration before termination of the UPCAP technical assistance grant on Sept. 30. Representatives from four of the six counties (Alger, Marquette, Menominee, Schoolcraft) were in attendance at the meeting.

Since a majority of the district counties were represented, and met the criteria for district formation, it was agreed to form the central district.

Dickinson and Delta counties are eligible to join the district and participate on an equal basis with the other four counties when the reorganization of their county OEDP committees is completed.

possibility of carrying out a heart transplant for Barnum at the U-M hospital.

No Insurance

Until Aug. 19, money from the clinical research program of the National Institutes of Health had been paying for transplant preparations at the medical center.

The money ran out on that day, hospital officials said. Barnum had no insurance to cover medical costs.

A day later, the hospital's associate director, Dr. Roger B. Nelson, reported that "some generous people have come along with funds and we're moving again." He said the money was being donated by individuals and organizations.

The hospital has estimated Barnum's transplant could cost as much as $40,000.

Surgery and the first week's recuperation bore an estimated price tag of $5,000, Nelson said. Barnum's daily bill in the hospital's intensive care unit prior to the transplant was said to be $190.

The recipient was transferred to U-M Medical Center from the Veterans Administration Hospital in Ann Arbor where he had first gone when Barnum's chronic heart condition became serious.

The medical center has become known throughout Michigan for its success in kidney transplants. It also is a center for treatment of critical burn cases.
